THANKSGIVING AND BARIUM

For many years these two words, Thanksgiving and Barium, have been inseparable in the Synod of North Carolina, for it is as the people give thanks unto God that they worship Him also in rendering service to His children. This special Thanksgiving Offering is still the main life-line of the operation of the Home. The Synod is asking for $100,000.00 and the Home will need every dollar of it.

The farm, gardens, dairy, and orchard have suffered from the dry weather and our usual ample supply will be limited through the winter days. Food must be put on the table, shoes must be bought, and clothes must be provided, regardless of dry weather last summer. Therefore, the Presbyterians will remember these things when they make their offering for the Home.

If all the people over the Synod will be sure to make their contributions through the Sunday School, the Church, or to the special offering in whatever manner is devised, the good work of Barium Springs, now in its seventh decade can continue - bodies can be made stronger, eyes can be examined, teeth can be filled, minds can be trained, hearts can be nurtured in Christ, and the Kingdom of God can come in the hearts of the boys and girls who are our own.

Barrett Elected Alumni President

The alumni association meeting in annual sesion on Homecoming Day elected Charles Barrett president of the association for the next two years, succeeding W. A. Johnson. Lafayette Donaldson continues as secretary for the group.

The Homecoming which began on Thursday night continued through Sunday. Hundreds of former students and their families returned to the campus for the occasion. From far and near they came by bus and car. From Alaska, Arkansas, Florida,Conneticcut, Washington, D. C., and from many other states, the students had come for the big day of Friday when the chapel exercises, the alumni luncheon, the alumni business session, and the football game were all of great interest. Every part of the day was thoroughly enjoyed and after having been critically examined was pronounced good. Particular emphasis was given to the afternoon's contest between the Barium Tornadoes and the Methodists from the Children's Home. The two teams were about evenly matched and keyed up for the occasion, played their hearts out on Sloan Field. The score was 7-6 in favor of Children's Home. Hard blocking and tackling, fast running, fine offensive play and excellent defensive play marked the contest as it was officiated over by J. D. Rogers and other competent men. The outstanding feature of the whole game was the fact that there was not a single infraction of the rules called during the afternoon - not a penalty during the entire game. This very fact commends the squads from both Homes and the coaches who have instilled into them the spirit of sportmanship and rugged play.

On Sunday afternoon at Little Joe's Church a wedding ceremony concluded the festive days. At this ceremony John Whiting and Hilda Barnes were united in marriage by the minister of Little Joe's Church in an impressive ceremony attended by a large number of friends and students.

Six Hundred At Men's Meeting

Six hundred men, representing more than fifty churches in Concord Presbytery, met at Barium Springs for their annual supper meeting, heard a challenging message from Doctor Frank Hall of Wrightsville Beach, reviewed a years record of growth of the Men of the Church organization, elected officers for the new church year, divided the area work into seven districts and adopted ambitious plans for the year ahead.

Doctor Hall's address was one of challenge to men to commit their lives "totally to Jesus Christ". He reminded them that in spite of the "Idolators of Numbers and of statiscal stories of progress, men are still using subterfuges and substitutes for the call that says, 'Deny self, take up a cross, and follow Me'."

He called attention to the urgency for a fundamental discovery that today "man's race is not a race to seek God, but a race to evade God", quoting with effectiveness Francis Thompson's poem "The Hound of Heaven". A statement of arresting interest was his comment on the fear complex of our day in the light of our "fleeing into the Church to escape Christ."

The speaker's address concluded with a tribute to the potential of Christian men to turn the tides of darkness, and a plea for "surrender, not of this or that, but of self and a committal of self to Christ."

Doctor Frank L. Jackson, who has served as President of the Men of the Church of Concord Presbytery during the

THE REAL BEAUTY

One of he most beautiful places in North Carolina is on highway No. 21, abo forty miles north of Charlotte and five miles south of Statesville. Even though the sky, the grass, and the trees make a beautiful scene, the picturesque beauty of nature is not the beauty to which reference is made. The real beauty is found in the love, the trust, and the laughter of the boys and girls who make it their home, because the place is Barium Springs.

Over sixty years ago, several women in Charlotte made the preliminary steps in establishing a home for children. A private home in Charlotte for boys and girls was the first tangible evidence of their desires but from this beginning followed the action of the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina to establish a permanent home for children at Barium Springs. A two-story wooden structure, formerly used as a hotel, housed the first group - twelve boys and girls.

Since this beginning, many boys and girls have made their home at Barium Springs. The physical appearance of the campus has changed through the years - the one wooden structure has been replaced with many brick buildings, the little saplings of yesterday have grown into tall trees which are pictures of beauty in the fall and spring and shelters of shade in the heat of summer, the entire campus is larger and more beautiful - but the intent of the Home has never changed - to develop wholesome and normal citizens for community life.

One question frequently asked is: "What age children are at Barium Springs and what plan is used in caring for the children of the various ages?"

As a rule, the child must be at least three years old before he is eligible to enter. If it is necessary, he can remain at Barium until he finishes high school.

Nine cottages are homes for the various age groups. To paraphrase a familiar quotation, "it takes a heap of living" to make a child an adult; so throughout the stages of the child's development, to serve the needs of the child is the main objective."

"I took a piece of living clay,
And gently formed it day by day,
And molded with my power and art
A young child's soft and yielding heart.

I came again when years were gone,
It was a man I looked upon,
He still that early impress bore,
And I could change him nevermore."

The child of pre-school age makes his home at Stowe Cottage, called Baby Cottage. Little girls of all descriptions but with one common characteristic - appeal - live on the second floor while the little boys with winsome grins and teasing eyes live on the first. Whether blonde, brunette, boy or girl, these are the "babies" of the family. Learning to say "yes, ma' am," "no, ma'am," "thank you," and "please," as well as finding time to play, eat, rest, and sleep, keep these little ones busy.

When the child becomes six, he moves from Stowe to another cottage. If a boy, he goes to Synod Cottage and, if a girl, to Annie Louise. Here with more than twenty other boys or girls - freckled faced, snaggled-toothed, rosy cheeked - he makes his home until he is eight years old. Lees Cottage for boys and Howard Cottage for girls are homes for those of Junior age. To describe the stages of development, the characteristics, and the activities of the group from six to eleven would be an impossibility. With agile bodies and alert minds, they pass through these formative years. Necessary to their development, of course, is active recreation. Aside from this, though, they learn to perform various household chores and are taught to assume responsibility for their personal appearances and actions. The Howard Cottage girls are known as the "Bean Stringers" and the Lees' boys, the "Berry Pickers" from having performed these duties most efficiently during the summer months.

Sleeking down that tousled hair and polishing those scuffed shoes to a shine, the boy of intermediate age moves into Jennie Gilmer Cottage while the girl of similar age moves into Rumple Hall. The boys twelve to fourteen are known as the "dairy boys" because their primary work is in the dairy. The duties of these vary - some are clean-up and feed-up boys, some are milkers, while others are strippers or milk-house boys. Work, though, is not their only pastime. Somehow there is always time for a tussle in the hayloft, a game of football or basketball or marbles or the hundred and one things that attract the attention of a thirteen or fourteen year old.

The intermediate girls play a big part in the life of the campus because they serve the food and keep the dining room clean. As you see them rushing from table to kitchen trying to satisfy the appetites of the hungry boys and girls, there is no doubt in your mind but that this is a very important group.

The "Quads" is home for the high school boy while the Lottie Walker Building, or "Woman's Building," is home for the high school girl. Taking on the dignity of age, these young people assume manifold duties. The boys work on the farm; in the orchard; in the print shop; or with the maintenance crew where they gain experience in plumbing, steam heating, and working with electricity. Cooking, washing, ironing, housecleaning, and sewing are some of the jobs the girls do. Through their work and associations, they discover their abilities, and, by seeking to develop the best that is in them, strive to be prepared for that venture into the world of challenges and opportunity.

Though the cottages are "home bases" for the boys and girls, other buildings on the campus are also valuable assets for meeting the needs of their active minds and bodies. The church, the school, the activities building, and, even the infirmary, have major parts in the achievement of the purpose - to develop wholesome and normal citizens for community life.

Through words, you have had a brief visit to the home of the Barium boys and girls. A beautiful thought is expressed in the words of Oma Carlyle Anderson:

"If you have a little boy
All your very own,
Then you have enough and more
To make a happy home.

And if but once each day
You should see him smile,
That would be enough and more,
To make your life worth while.

Or, say you have a little boy
To read to every night,
That would be enough and more
To make your evening bright.

And if each night at bed time
You can kiss this little lad,
That will be enough and more
To make you very glad.

And if you see him in the evening
When he kneels to pray,
That will be enough and more
To make a perfect day."

If one little lad or one little girl can bring a smile to your lips or put a gleam in your eyes, think what many little lads and many little girls can do. They put a lilt in your walk and a laugh in your talk; they bring a tear to your eye or a throb to your throat. They tantalize! They cheer! They annoy! They love!

The boys and girls at Barium Springs are happy boys and girls. They are happy because they have a home - a home that you, the Presbyterians of the Synod of North Carolina, have made possible for them. It thrills the heart to hear such words of praise as these from a Barium graduate now in the Air Corps:

"Barium - cheerful laughter, worry free, friendly foe, crescendo of campus beauty - I only wish I could describe what Barium has meant to me."

Yes, they have a home, because, through the years, you have remembered them in your prayers, you have loved them with your hearts, and you have provided for them with your gifts. With smiles of confidence and expressions of happiness, they face the future because they know YOU WILL NOT FORGET THEM!

past year, presided. The other officers who have served with him during the year are Doctor A. V. Goldiere of Davidson College, Vice President, and G. Spencer Thomason, of the Franklin Presbyterian Church of Salisbury, Secretary and Treasurer.

The new officers elected for the calendar year 1954 are Mr. Cary Lowrance of the Prospect Presbyterian Church of Mooresville, President, Mr. Earl Pittard of the First Presbyterian Church of Salisbury, Vice President, and Mr. E. R. Westmoreland of the Second Presbyterian Church of Mooresville, Secretary and Treasurer. These officers were installed by Dr. Samuel Newell, minister of the Davidson Presbyterian Church.

The seven district chairmen called for in the new Plan of Organization are to be named by the Council of the Men of the Church.

During the evening words of greeting were brought by Mr. Royal S. Brown, of Winston-Salem, President of the Men of the Church of the General Assembly, Mr. John Deifell of Greensboro, N. C., President of the Men of the Church of the Synod of North Carolina, and Dr. J. O. Mann, of Charlotte, N. C., Regional Director.

The Men of the Church pledged themselves to greater emphasis in the work of Evangelism, and heard plans for a conference on Evangelism to be held in the City Auditorium of Raleigh on February 17th and 18th, 1954. Rev. Milton B. Faust, Synod's Director of Evangelism, presented plans for the year of evangelism ahead.

One of the features of this meeting was the singing of familiar songs of the Church by the hundreds of men in attendance.

Mr. F. C. Niblock, of Concord, proposed an expression of thanks to the Home for its entertainment of the Men of the Church, to the outgoing officers for their effective service during the year, for the eloquent and effective message of Doctor Hall, which was adopted by a rising vote.

The closing prayer was offered by Mr. R. G. Calhoun of the Barium Springs staff.

THANKSGIVING

A promise has been made in your name. The boys and girls at Barium Springs have been assured that the Presbyterians of North Carolina will provide for them. Synod is asking for $100,000.00 as a special offering at this Thanksgiving. This goal can be reached if each member in every Church will give generously. How much will you and your Church share in the promise made?
